

ABOUT AMOEBASPLIT

Amoeba Split is a musical group from A Coruña (Spain) that performs a type of music called "Progressive Jazz-Rock".

Their influences are mainly British bands from the seventies, such as King Crimson, Soft Machine or Caravan, and they are considered nowadays as one of the greatest exponents of the "Canterbury Sound" in the world.

In 2010 their debut album, titled "Dance of the goodbyes", received excellent reviews around the world, and was nominated by the Progawards website as "Best Progressive Rock Debut Album of 2010".

In 2016 Amoeba Split published their second album, "Second Split", being considered by the website Progarchives as one of the best albums released that year.

The group, well known for their performances, has participated in numerous Jazz Festivals and venues such as the prestigious "Finisterrae Prog Festival", performing alongside celebrities such as Al Di Meola, Neal Morse and Jan Akkerman.

In 2023 they released their third album, "Quiet Euphoria", reaching number 1 of all the albums released in the world according to Progarchives for three consecutive months, an achievement never before reached by any other Spanish group within the style.
